Local WAF Representative Tells of Career Openings

New horizons limited only by one's imagination await qualified young women in the Air Force of today. Staff Sergeant William C. Edwards, Torrance Air Force Air Force recruiting representative, announced that there are 14 interesting and varied career fields available to WAF (Women in the Air Force) applicants. Today's WAF are assigned to responsible positions in such fields as finance, transportation, personnel, communications, medical, dental, air traffic control and warning and administrative. Women of the Air Force receive free housing and food, medical and dental care, recreational facilities, 30 days paid vacation annually, social security coverage and a liberal retirement policy. Additionally, a WAF enjoys the same pay, privileges and promotional opportunities as male airman of equal rank. Enlistments in the WAF are for four years and the initial training is conducted at Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio, Tex. Following basic training a WAF may go directly to a duty assignment where she will receive on-the-job training in her career field or she may go to one of the many technical schools to receive further formal training. Basic requirements, stated Sgt. Edwards, are a high school graduate, between 18 and 27 years of age, a citizen of the United States and single. More information on the WAF program may be obtained by seeing Sergeant Edwards at the USAF Recruiting Office, 1319 1/2 Saratoga St., Torrance, or by calling FAirfax 8-1404.
